Piotr Maksymiuk

Front-end developer with React

ABOUT ME

What I look for is full time employment where scope covers React and its ecosystem. In my portfolio one can easily find examples of relevant applications.

My level of English in spoken and written permits to freely communicate with customers and colleagues, and use web resources.

I am keen to learn, quite recently I have graduated as IT Technician. Currently learn Next.js.

I respect company that hires me and will not abandon it for a few dollars more.

MOTIVATION FOR CHANGE

Until quite recently my professional life was all about sales, however. Why the change? Why just programming?

- Sales jobs require quite permanent traveling what for sometime was a significant burden and negatively impacted my life.
- I realised that – with respect to my usual workday split of duties – I am often paid just for car driving.
- The plastic industry is shrinking, due to (among others) envirinmental considerations.
- Always wanted to be work for growing industry.
- The science was always my strength.
- Immediately after graduation I had a task of developing program for chemical calculations and felt good with that(these were times of paleinformatics – Turbo Pascal, Intel 8088 processors)

EXPECTATIONS

I look around for full time steady job, preferably remote. Hybrid one in Warsaw also OK.
As per contract form, I would choose regular employment, however do not reject other forms.
UDEMY training platform access would be an advantage.
